

Café Culture

A slice of heaven and a sip of bliss for the trendy.

The café, 19th century Paris: a place for Bohemians to share and explore ideas. Many literary and art legends were often seen around tables in intense discussion. Smoke-filled cafes lined the streets – simple coffee brews feeding the minds of these great thinkers and trendsetters.

The café today: still a place where people walked out refined and enlightened with ideas. Whilst previously one would have just made do with a cup of coffee, the choices are endless now – latte, mocha, macchiato and others. And then there's the assortment of pastries taking the place of the staple biscuit. All that makes for good nourishment for any creative spirit.

Did you know...?

Coffee was cultivated in Yemen and it has since been adopted by the Arab world as their drink of choice, with alcohol being forbidden in Islam. And when coffee was first introduced to Europe, it was no surprise that it was initially referred to as Arab wine.

It is the world's most popular drink, and no wonder – the Aztecs referred to this infusion with beans as the "drink of the Gods". In South America, the bean is second only to cocaine as a cash crop in Colombia and more Brazilian samba dancers fuel up on coffee. Elsewhere in the world, more and more people continue to appreciate coffee in even more ways day by day – adding chocolate or spices to improve its flavour.

Bread & Butter Pudding with Chocolate Brandy Sauce

Now you can enjoy this popular English dessert at home with this special recipe from Chef Bruno Phillippe.

Instructions

Brandy Sauce

- Mix cream and chocolate in a saucepan over a low flame until chocolate melts
- Remove from flame, stir in water and brandy.

Pudding

- Preheat oven at 170°C
- Warm up the milk and cream, and add butter
- Mix egg yolks and pour to milk, cream and butter mixture
- Cut the toasted bread into small cubes and arrange in an oven-proof dish
- Pour the milk mixture into the dish until the ingredients are well soaked
- Put the dish in a water filled casserole and bake for about 45 minutes to 1 hour
- Let the pudding rest for about 20 minutes, then portion on a plate and garnish with Brandy Sauce

Chef's Tip

Flavour the pudding with your choice of fruit. Try banana, peach or mango. Slice the fruit and arrange them at the bottom of the dish before topping with cubed toasted bread.
