

Celebration of Life

Creating global harmony and unity with food.

Feasting is a universal quality in festivities and making merriment. Distant relatives gather for meals over holidays, and business deals are sealed with extravagant luncheons. And in the kitchen, mothers lovingly pass on their cooking secrets to their daughters. There is without a doubt that food helps bring us together and bind us closer.

With the exchange of recipes and dishes between cultures throughout the world, it's not rare to find dishes of varying heritage in a sitting. And as we see the introduction of exotic dishes into even the most foreign of markets, we rejoice in the fact that through these dishes, it's a small world after all!

Did you know...?

The sandwich was first created in 1762 by the 4th Earl of Sandwich, John Montague. Legend has it that he first ordered his servants to bring him meats served between two slices of breads to avoid interrupting his gambling games. Today, his descendants continue the legacy with a snack and sandwich delivery business in Britain. And if you ever visit the quaint town of Sandwich, be sure to visit a small village close by called Ham and look out for the Ham-Sandwich signpost at the West Street junction!
